AIDS TO INTERPRETATION

In the column headed "Title, Page, &c.":
The abbreviation "ss." means that the sermon will be found in a single-sermon edition. A page number, on the other hand, indicates that it will be found in a collective edition of sermons or miscellaneous works by one or several authors. The number is the page on which the sermon begins in that collective edition.

An "&c." following a page number indicates that a series of sermons, all on the same biblical text and by the same given author, begins on the page so numbered within a collective edition. The number of sermons on that text, if greater than one, is usually (but not always) indicated by an arabic numeral preceding the "s." that stands before the page number: e.g., "10 s. 189&c."

If no "&c." follows the page number, or there is no page number at all after the "10 s." or similar expression, the expression is usually an abbreviation of the title or description by means of which (along with date and format of printing) the publication is identified under author's name in Cooke's (and the present) Volume II. (The practice of naming a volume of sermons by the number of sermons contained in it was common in the 18th century.)

In case reference to Volume II does not resolve a reader's doubt about how such an expression as "10 s." is being used in a particular case, the reader should consult Volume IV. If the expression recurs there in several records of sermons by the same author and published in an edition of the same date and format, then it represents a title, not the number of sermons on a text.

In the column headed "Occasion or Subject":

(1) A single small "s." always stands for "sermon."

(2) Any other small letter or distinct pair of small letters usually stands for a preposition: e.g., "b." for "before"; "a." or "ag." for "against."

(3) A capital letter following such an abbreviation stands for the grammatical object of the preposition, that object often denoting the audience of the sermon: e.g., "b.K." stands for "before King"; "b.Q." for "before Queen"; "b.K. & Q." for "before King & Queen"; "b.C." for "before (House of) Commons"; "b.L." for "before (House of) Lords"; "b.L.M." for "before Lord Mayor."

(4) A capital letter before a small "s." or before an abbreviated preposition usually denotes the occasion for which the sermon was preached. Thus "F.s.b.C." stands for "Fast sermon before Commons"; "Th.b.M." for "Thanksgiving sermon before Mayor."

(5) Unfortunately, "F." can mean "Feast" as well as "Fast," but does so only after a designation of the feasters: e.g., "Gard.F." stands for "Gardeners' Feast"; "Sch.F." for "School Feast."

(6) "Fun.s." always means "Funeral sermon."

If a reader finds that an abbreviation within the column "Occasion or Subject" remains unintelligible without further aid, he may usually obtain help in one of the ways listed below:

(1) from Volume II (or perhaps more conveniently Volume V) if the source symbol "2C" occurs in the column "Sources Compared" within the present volume, indicating that a relevant entry is contained therein; (In Volume II, Cooke often spelled out in full, or almost in full, the occasion and/or subject of a sermon if he had reason to include a record of it there.)

(2) from Volume I (Index Volume), where various abbreviations relevant to each index heading are displayed;

(3) from the biblical text of the sermon; (A reading of the biblical text will often make clear what the sermon is about and to what occasion or audience it might be suitable.)

(4) from the work of Cooke's predecessor Sampson Letsome; (Cooke says in his "Preface" that he is leaving to the "Dexterity of the Compositor" the abbreviations which are to be used in the column "Occasion or Subject." It is clear that the compositor formed most of them by replicating or, more commonly, compressing the abbreviations which Cooke's predecessor, Sampson Letsome, had used for similar matter. Readers who have access to a copy of Letsome's 1753 edition of The Preacher's Assistant will find therein (with few exceptions) a record of any sermon that Cooke has not listed with a prefixed asterisk, and in Letsome's record they will usually find a fuller and more easily interpreted abbreviation of occasion or subject.)

The Reverend John Cooke: 1742-1794
A Brief Sketch of His Life and Work

John Cooke, son of Nicholas Cooke, a felt-maker, was baptized in Devon, England in April 1742. He entered Christ-Church College at Oxford at age 18 as a servitor, doing menial work to earn a living. He obtained his B.A. in 1764 and his M.A in 1767. In 1765 he was appointed one of eight chaplains of his college, for which duties he received a stipend of one pound for each of the four terms of each year (and presumably his lodging and food) until 1780. In June of 1780 he was presented with a "living," a form of income which Christ-Church College dispensed to its best scholars. He surrendered his chaplaincy the following December. The last record of a payment of a pound to him in the Christ-Church College Disbursement Books was in the Hilary term of 1781. No later records of him have been found in Oxford.

Cooke's subsequent income was that of a Rector of Wentnor in Shropshire. This may be considered the 18th-century equivalent of a 20th-century award by a foundation to assist a scholar in his research work. Moreover, his appointment did not require that he live in his parish. It was frequently the practice for a rector engaged elsewhere to appoint a curate to fulfill the responsibilities of office. To this position Cooke appointed the Reverend Richard Lloyd, who lived in Wentnor and carried out the religious services and spiritual guidance needed by the parishioners.

There is no record of Cooke having ever lived in Wentnor, but there is a record that he had not visited there during the last two years of his life. However, he did benefit from his "living" as a rector, which was his due from tithes, from commutation of tithes, from interest on the Rectory's endowment, etc. From this he paid his appointed curate. John Cooke died December 23, 1794, most likely at Totnes, Devonshire, the place of his birth. There is no record of a marriage or of a will.

From examination of the records it can readily be assumed that Cooke was employed as Librarian during his years as Chaplain at Christ-Church College. It was there he began to record the sermons in this library, and made notes in a copy of the 1753 edition of Sampson Letsome's The Preacher's Assistant, using the same name for his own book. Among the provenances Letsome named in his listings, no mention was made of Christ-Church Library, saying in his preface, "The Compiler had not an Opportunity of consulting more than the Bodleian, Sion and Eton Catalogues; but private, parochial and college Libraries, such as are most convenient for consulting, according to the Situation Persons are in, may be referred to by themselves." Considering that the Christ-Church Library was the largest college library in Oxford—its collection of books and pamphlets was second in size only to that of the general university library, the Bodleian—an annotated copy noting which of Letsome's items were in the Christ-Church Library, would have been very useful to all of the students at the university.

Sources of Cooke's Two Volumes: Catalogues vs. Shelves.

For the most part, Cooke compiled his records of authors and their works for his Volume II from catalogues—some in print, some in manuscript—at public libraries and in private collections. The catalogues of private collections he obtained directly or indirectly from those who owned the collections or from their auctioneers. Among these catalogues was the one (which the British Library owns) that Sampson Letsome, Cooke's predecessor, had made of his own collection, and the sermon holdings of Lord Oxford's collection (known as the Harleian, and also owned by the British Library), as well as other private or public collections. Also among the sermon catalogues there were doubtless some compiled by booksellers of their own holdings and by auctioneers of the holdings which they had for sale.

Cooke's Volume I was compiled so far as possible from personal inspection of books and pamphlets on shelves, in cases, or in piles in various libraries and shops. Some of the volumes and pamphlets must have lain loose and unbound; it was in this form that publishers customarily sold them to their purchasers, who bound or cased them as they chose. It was also in this unbound form that the publishers provided them free, as required by law, to certain libraries of deposit. Within England, these were the Bodleian Library at Oxford, the University Library at Cambridge, the Library of Sion College in London, and—after it was founded toward the end of the period which Cooke's work covered—the British Museum Library.

Where sermons lay loose and unbound, the author might not be clearly identified, and it might be uncertain whether those sermons were the same as those listed in a catalogue of that collection. The two sources of information did not and should not always agree in every detail about the same thing. A misprint such as a numeral within a biblical text citation, might have been corrected in the catalogue. A misprint or error in a catalogue entry might not exist in the actual volume upon a bookshelf. An author's name, which had been spelled variously by printers or by the author himself, might be standardized in the catalogue. Variations in publication dates might stem from differences between the publisher's notice and the actual date of printing. When comparisons were made between Cooke's work and Letsome's work, and in a few cases with the published sermons themselves, it became clear that Cooke checked carefully for errors in his sources and corrected them so far as he could.

Of course, Cooke could not always avoid errors of his own. More frequent than his errors were those introduced in the print shop, the Clarendon Press in Oxford. The product reveals that the copy which Cooke provided to the printer was difficult to work from. Furthermore, the faults in printing suggest that the costs of production tended to exceed Cooke's resources. The signs of economy and of some haste in the printing are the apparent use of imposition by half sheets in the press work, imperfect proofing, and the way in which the work of setting type was apparently distributed among several compositors.

Dr. Spaulding's Corrections

Unfortunately, Cooke's original manuscript has probably been destroyed; Dr. Spaulding, despite his search at the original printer and at various libraries in England, was not able to find it. However, he was able to examine three original copies of the book, two in the United States and one at the British Library, and from these he was able to glean some interesting data about how it was probably set in type, imposed and proofread. It is clear that neither Volume I nor Volume II was well proofread by the printshop staff. Although there are lists of errata, they obviously concern errors that Cooke found within his manuscript after he had given it to the printer, rather than referring to misprints discovered in the galleys or page proofs.

Glaring errors, exposed to the eye while printed sheets were hanging on racks to dry, were of course corrected before a press run was completed. But these corrections were quite imperfect. For example, in two of the copies of Cooke's Volume I, "St. LULE" stands out as a running head at the tops of seven pages. But in the third copy, the correct heading, "St. LUKE," occurs at the tops of the same seven pages. Obviously, the faulty "L" was observed and replaced by a "K" before all copies of the edition had been printed. But this correction was inadequate. A worse error should have been noticed: on page 243, among the pages headed "St. LULE" the erroneous heading "St. MARK" appears. However, in the third copy, where the correct "St. LUKE" headings were inserted, page 243 still incorrectly reads "St. MARK."

In Cooke's Volume I there are also misprints of a less obvious but more troublesome and frequent kind--an error in the numerals of the sermon text. A single misprint of this kind sometimes causes a series of records to be wrong about an important point of information--the biblical texts of the sermons which their authors chose to develop. Such errors are listed and explained in Appendix A in Volume III.

In his Volume II, signs of haste at the printshop not only include apparent imposition in half sheets and inadequate proof corrections, but also the way the work of setting type was distributed among compositors. This is revealed by a study of "catchwords" at the bottom of each page. It was often the practice for compositors to set the first word of a page on the bottom of the preceding one in order to easily "catch" their place, and especially to guide the binder in assembling the pages and their gatherings. By evaluating the method and types of catchwords used in Volume II, it appears that the book was set by possibly as many as four different compositors working simultaneously.

Spaulding's investigation of all possible avenues led to the elimination of non-productive fields, permitting him to produce a document which contains all of the meat without any fat, enhancing the value of his book. It was the scholarly work of John Cooke and that of his predecessors in the 18th century that opened a door for Dr. Spaulding and gave him the opportunity to develop the information in this six-volume exegesis. It is hoped that these works will prove to be fertile ground for new investigations which will add useful knowledge about our religions and culture heritage.

M DCC LXXX III.

PREFACE.

IT muſt be confeſſed, that the humble Taſk of a COMPILER, is but a dull Employ, incapable of attracting much of the public Attention, and, conſequently, at beſt a very ſlender Ground to reſt any Hope of Reputation upon: yet, inconſiderable as Productions of this kind may appear to ſome, or be depreciated by others, many and great Advantages may, no doubt, be derived from them. Upon this Principle, and at the Inſtigation of a few Friends, the following Work was undertaken, and is now publiſhed for the Uſe of YOUNG STUDENTS in Divinity.

Conſidered only in its original Deſign, as a Book of Reference, directing to the ableſt Commentators on Holy Writ, to Diſcourſes penned with the greateſt Judgment, and capable of improving the moſt refined and delicate Taſte, it may claim the Attention and Approbation at leaſt, if not the Commendation, of thoſe for whom it was principally intended.

THE preſent Editor has, as nearly as poſſible, adopted the much-approved Method of The REV. MR. LETSOME, only upon an improved and more extenſive Plan. In this Collection are inſerted the Texts of ſeveral thouſand Diſcourſes, which had been omitted by that Compiler, beſides ſome additional Libraries, ſuch as the public and private in both Univerſities, the BRITISH MUSEUM, and that of Dr. WILLIAMS's in London.

THE Editor would have extended his Enquiries to CATHEDRAL and PAROCHIAL Libraries, and made a Reference to them, had not the Work ſwelled ſo much beyond Expectation. An INDEX likewiſe is given of all the OCCASIONAL Sermons mentioned in the SERIES. Hence the young Divine may at once avail himſelf of conſulting any particular Author upon the deſired Subject, and be furniſhed with the Matter and Arguments of the different Writers upon it. To the whole is ſubjoined an APPENDIX to each Volume, occaſioned by ſeveral new Sermons being printed, and others arriving too late, to be inſerted in their proper Places.

AND, to make this Publication ſtill more extenſively uſeful, the Diſcourſes of the DISSENTING CLERGY, of whatever Denomination, are here incorporated, and their Names diſtinguiſhed in Italic Characters. The Authors, having an ASTERISK prefixed in either Volume, are the Additions of the preſent Editor. Thoſe included in BRACKETS are ſuch as appear dubious.

THE Marks made uſe of by Mr. LETSOME for particularizing the different Clauſes or Parts of the Verſe, are diſcontinued, being very obvious to every one at firſt Sight. But the Diſtinctions in the Book of Pſalms, ſpecifying the Texts taken out of the Old Verſion in the Pſalter by prefixing O. T. leſt they ſhould be miſtaken for thoſe of the New Tranſlation in the Bible, are carefully retained, ſince they will ſerve to correct a Miſtake, which frequently occaſions Confuſion.

SHOULD any Difficulty ariſe in reſpect to the Abbreviations in the laſt Column of the firſt Volume, (which were left to the Dexterity of the Compoſitor) referring to the Name of the Authors in the ſecond, where the Subjects of ſingle Sermons are often printed at large, will remove it in general.

THE

THE Place of Publication, Size, Date, and Occaſion, chiefly being taken from the Sermons themſelves, are accurately printed, the Editor having himſelf, at a great Expenſe and Labour, conſulted moſt of our public Libraries, and, by the unſollicited Favour of many EMINENT and VERY RESPECTABLE PERSONS, whoſe Modeſty obliges him to conceal their Names, carefully examined their different Indexes.

AND here he takes this Opportunity of expreſſing his warmeſt Acknowledgments to theſe REVEREND and LEARNED GENTLEMEN, who have ſo largely aſſiſted him, both by their friendly Communications and generous Patronage, as by their means he has been enabled to expedite the following Work, and render it conſiderably more accurate.

IN the Continuation of the Liſt of IRISH ARCH-BISHOPS and BISHOPS the Dates are copied from the Gazette, and denote the Days on which his MAJESTY was pleaſed to order the Letters Patent for the Promotion or Tranſlation to be paſſed under the great Seal of Ireland.

THUS enlarged, improved, and continued down to the preſent Year, this Edition of the PREACHER'S ASSISTANT is humbly ſubmitted to the Candour and Indulgence of the impartial Publick. And the Editor flatters himſelf, that nothing has been omitted to compleat it, in proportion to the Aſſiſtances he could procure, and other Circumſtances would admit of; and, conſidering the vaſt Labour and Aſſiduity neceſſarily attending it, as few Errors, 'tis preſumed, have eſcaped his Notice, as could reaſonably be expected in ſo long and tedious an Undertaking.
